Extra Session.

The senators and representatives seem to doubt that Governor Gray will call an extra session of the legislature, although they cannot say just how the state departments will get along without funds, and then, an extra session is not without precedent.

Governor Morton called a special session which convened April 24, 1861, and he again called one which convened Nov. 13, 1865.

Conrad Miller called a special session which convened April 8, 1869. Baker also called an extra session again on Nov. 13, 1872.

Thomas A. Hendrick called an extra session which convened on March 9, 1875.

Gov. J. D. Williams called one which convened March 6, 1887.

Governor Porter called an extra session which convened March 8, 1881.

Isaac P. Gray called an extra session which convened March 10, 1885, thus showing that in twenty-seven years we have had, since 1860, three republican governors who had called five extra sessions, and three democratic governors who have called three.

NATURE'S TRIBUTE.

The Sun Bursts Through a Cloudy Sky to Light the Face of Brooklyn's Great Preacher Just Before the Coffin Lid Was Closed.

New York, March 10.—In spite of the rain the streets in the vicinity of Rev. Henry Ward Beecher's house were crowded with people this morning. The coffin rested in the center of the front parlor and was surrounded with a bank of fragrant flowers. The remains were dressed in a suit of black broadcloth, with a frock coat buttoned up, and the right hand laid across the heart. The features were natural and there was a smile upon the face.

Promptly at 9:30 o'clock Rev. Chas. H. Hall, of the church of the Holy Trinity, entered the house and commenced to read the burial service from the ritual of the Episcopal church. The quartet sang, "Jesus, Lover of My Soul," "Beyond the Sighing and the Weeping," and "Come, Holy Spirit." While the services were in progress in the house, company G, known as the Plymouth company, of the Thirtieth regiment, was drawn up in front of the house.

Only members of the family and a few intimate friends were present during the services at the house. The family were seated in the back parlor. None of the family were dressed in black. A few minutes before the remains were carried out of the house the rain ceased and sunshine burst out bright and clear. A ray shone through the front window into the parlor before the lid of the coffin was screwed down and rested upon the face of the great divine, lighting it up and forming a halo around his head.

The coffin was covered with roses and ferns when placed in the church. The face of the dead was exposed and the regiment filed by first, afterwards the holders of tickets were admitted.

BEECHER'S FORTUNE.

Henry Ward Beecher's estate is valued at $220,000, real and personal. His realty consisted of his country seat at Peekskill and some lands in Wisconsin. He did not own the house in which he lived. His income was about $30,000 per year. For the past four years he received a salary of $15,000 a year from Plymouth church; in former years his salary was $20,000. During the famous Tilton controversy $100,000 was granted him as a mark of confidence in his integrity and to enable him to meet the expenses of his suit. For twenty years he was prominent in the lecture field, receiving never less than $250 a night nor more than $500. This netted him about $14,000 a year. Then he received a royalty of about $4,000 upon some books written in his earlier days, prominent among which was "Lectures to Young Men." His syndicate newspaper letter which he continued up to the time of his illness, netted him $75 a week. This income, though almost princely, was spent in ornamenting his lovely home and in charity. His house was a perfect cabinet of curiosities from all lands, and in odd specimens of bric-a-brac, shells, tortoise and gems of various descriptions was unexcelled.

The Weather.

WASHINGTON, March 10.—Following are the weather indications:
Indiana, fair weather, becoming warmer.

A Hanging Bee.

PLYMOUTH, Mass., March 10.—Samuel Besse was hanged here this morning at 8:38 o'clock. On December 23d, 1885, Besse murdered Richard N. Lawton, a resident of Westport, and a collector of eggs. The murder was committed for the purpose of robbery. Reporters were excluded from the execution and only the witnesses specified by law were admitted. The simple fact that the sentence of the court was carried out is all that the sheriff will allow to be made public.

SERIOUS CHARGES

Are Filed Against Leading Strikers by General Manager Baldwin, of the Pennsylvania Company.

Youngstown, March 10.—The Pennsylvania company made a decisive move this morning. General Manager Baldwin filing a petition in court against Frank Vashell, James Kerr, Patrick O'Brien and eight others, charging that they were interfering with the operation of the road by terrorizing new men that the company had employed to operate their trains and threatening violence to the employees and officials. An injunction was issued by Judge Johnston restraining the men named from going upon the property of the Pennsylvania company, or in any manner interfering with trains. The restraining writs were served upon the men, who at once called a meeting and are now in secret session. Trainmaster Donaldson and Yardmaster Randall, of the New York, Pennsylvania and Ohio, are attempting to move freight.

MILWAUKEE, March 10th.—The strike of the printers in this city is at an end, the Typographical union having allowed its members to procure work wherever they can get it. But few strikers will be able to obtain work.

THE B. AND O.

A Committee is Figuring on President Garrett's Proposition To-day.

New York, March, 10.—The Executive committee of the Richmond terminal company, has just gone into session and will consider two propositions relating to the purchase of the Baltimore and Ohio stock under the option given by Robert Garrett to Alfred Sully. One of the directors just said the proposition most likely to be adopted is that the syndicate shall take the stock in their interest and hold it until the Richmond terminal and a full board of directors approve the action. The executive committee will then be placed in trust and the Richmond terminal will either consolidate the Baltimore and Ohio with their system or operate it separately as a proprietary road. The Pennsylvania railroad has no interest in the deal nor has the Western Union.

The meeting of the Richmond terminal executive has adjourned to meet at the call of Mr. Sully, but all information is refused as to their action.

ACCIDENTAL HANGING

A Father, Returning Home, Finds His Daughter Hanging in Her Swings.

PHILADELPHIA, March 10.—When John W. Niblick returned to his home at No. 2,011 East Thirteenth street, he found his two small children crying and on looking around was horror-stricken to see the body of his thirteen-year-old daughter, Annie, hanging by a rope attached to the transom over the door communicating between the two rooms of the first floor. The girl had evidently been dead for some hours. The theory is that she had attempted to arrange a swing, when the chair tilted and in the fall the rope became knotted around her neck.

LATER.

PHILADELPHIA, March 10.—Mrs. McClellan, neighbor to Mr. Niblick was arrested on suspicion of having murdered Annie Niblick, in order to get rid of her, thus making her chances better for marrying Mr. Niblick.

CIVIL SERVICE.

The Examinations for the Government Service Explained—The Salaries Promised.

One week from to-morrow some thirty or more applicants for positions in the government service will be examined in the county educational rooms in the court house by a special commission under Postmaster Knough.

People generally may not understand that the civil service examination is principally intended to cover department service at Washington. The names of the successful applicants will be placed on the Indiana list, and when the several departments need clerks from this state, choice will be made from the general list. Those who propose attending the examination in this city should understand that it will be conducted for department service. The following general information pertaining to the examination, is taken from the third annual report of the civil service commission:

Ordinary departmental examinations are divided into two grades, the general examination and the limited examination.

The general examination is for admission to places having salaries from $1,000 to $1,800, or over. The original admissions are usually at a salary of $1,000, though some of them are at a salary of $1,200.

The limited examination is for admission to places with a salary ranging from $720 to $900 inclusive, original admission being commonly at a salary of $900. The limited examination is much easier than the general examination, being mainly confined to the subjects numbered 1 and 2. It may embrace elementary questions in geography and the writing of a letter. As the work in the place reached by this examination is chiefly copying, a good handwriting is important to success.

A person who has taken only the limited examination cannot be appointed to any place requiring the general examination.

Those who pass the general examination, may, if they do not object, be certified for the appointment to the lower places; but they may afterwards be advanced to the higher without further examination.

Applicants who have passed the general examination take their chance to get at first a $1,200 or only a $1,000 place, as must those who have passed the limited examination take the chance of getting a $900 place, or only one of the $720 places.

The departmental examinations, whether general or limited, are for all places, above defined, in either of the departments at Washington, and there are no separate examinations for places in any particular department, except the special examinations. The applicant must remember that the examination, if it shows the requisite capacity, will only entitle him to be placed on the register of persons eligible for appointment, and to be certified, in his turn, to the appointing officer when a vacancy shall occur, and when his state is reached in the order of appointment.

MR. S. C. LUMBARD

Named as Receiver of the Citizens' Street Car Company and Empowered to Lay New Tracks on Calhoun Street.

The suit of Charles E. Bond seeking the appointment of a receiver for the Citizens' Street Railway company came up before Judge O'Rourke this morning. He listened to every phase of the case and concluded by appointing Mr. S. C. Lumbard receiver for the company with power to construct a double track on Calhoun street and make all necessary improvements, issuing receiver's certificates therefor. Mr. Lumbard immediately qualified, giving bond for $20,000 with M. J. H. Bass and Mr. S. B. Bond as his bondsmen.

Mr. E. P. Williams through his counsel filed proceedings to foreclose the mortgage of $20,000 on the road. When the line was mortgaged for $20,000, it was to Mr. Williams and Mr. O. P. Morgan as trustees, to secure bonds. In the capacity of trustee Mr. Williams seeks a foreclosure and the appointment of a receiver, but as it did not take precedence over Mr. Bond's suit, it is likely that he will not proceed further.

Within a day or two the Street Car company have been offered $70,000 for their property. This price would pay off the bonds and accrued interest amounting possibly to $40,000, and give the stockholders from fifty to seventy-five cents on the dollar for the money they invested. On the street the stock is solicited at twenty-five cents on the dollar with but few sales.

Mr. Lumbard will place the line in first class shape and possibly appoint a superintendent in place of Mr. Pearce.

FRANCIS DIDIER.

He Gives $2,000 for Religious Purposes, Including a New Church at Latty.

The will of Francis Didier was filed for probate to-day, with County Clerk Loeg. He appoints his son Francis X. Didier executor of his considerable estate. He bequeaths to his surviving wife the homestead and directs the executor to pay her $25 per month. He also directs that his minor children be paid $13 per month, with the proviso that his estate is to be finally divided among them.

He gives to Rt. Rev. Bishop Dwenger $1,000 in monthly installments and gives $1,000 towards the construction of a Catholic church at Latty, Paulding county, Ohio, if the same is built inside of five years.

Mr. John Daily comes home from Indianapolis a great admirer of President Green Smith. Mr. Daily, who is a very clever fellow, was one of the democratic doorkeepers to repel the republican mob and believes a few of the republican intruders bear the marks of the encounter.

HOW BRUIN RUGGED A BUZZ SAW.

"Talking about funny things," said a big, bronzed, bearded man in the reading-room of an up-town hotel, "the funniest thing I ever heard of happened in my saw-mill out in Michigan. We used a heavy upright saw for sawing heavy timber. One day the men had all gone to dinner, leaving the saw, which ran by water-power, going at full speed. While we were away a big black bear came into the mill and went nosing around. The saw caught his fur and twitched him a little. Bruin didn't like this at all, so he turned around and fetched the saw a lick with his paw. Result: a badly cut paw. A blow with the other paw followed, and it was also out. The bear was by this time aroused to perfect fury, and, rushing at the saw, he caught it in his grasp and gave it a tremendous hug. It was his last hug, and we lived on bear steaks for a week. When we came up from dinner there was half a bear on each side of the saw, which was going ahead as nicely as though it had never seen a bear. This is a fact, so help me, Bob," and the big lumberman bit off a fresh chew of tobacco.—New York Tribune.

THE MARKETS.

New York, March 10.—The stock market opened quiet, but firm, the first prices being generally small fractions above the closing figures of last evening. As usual, of late, bulk business was restricted to a few stocks—Western Union, Reading, Richmond and West Point.

Noon—Money easy, at 3 1/2 per cent.

New York, March 10.—Wheat opened 1 1/4 lower, but soon strengthened and recovered from the decline with a fair business; No. 2 April, 92 1/2@92 3/4. Corn, 1 1/4@1 1/2 higher, and moderately active, at 49c. Oats, firm and quiet, at 35 1/2@42c. Pork, firm, at $15 25@15 75. Lard, higher and firm at $7 90. Butter, firm, at 12@32c. Sugar, steady; crushed 6 1/2@6 5 1/2. Molasses, steady at 18c. Coffee, dull; fair Rio, 14c. Eggs, 16 1/2@16 3/4.

CHICAGO MARKET.

CHICAGO, March 10.—Shortly before noon wheat began to break off heavily and there was a frantic rush to sell, which caused May delivery to decline to 81 1/2c, or 4 1/2c under the highest prices yesterday. The market closed feverish at inside figures, 75 1/2c; May, 81 1/2c. Corn, easier at 36 1/2c. Oats, firm, at 24 1/2c. Rye, 54c. Barley, 49c. Flaxseed $1 06. Prime Timothy, $1.81. Whisky, $1.18. Pork, steady, $20.10. Lard, strong, at $7.85.

The inventory of the estate of Charles Francis Adams has been filed, and the total property left by him is appraised at $1,026,000. The real estate consists of the Hotel Boylston, the Bijou theater and adjacent property, and the Adams building in Boston, and the homestead and other property in Quincy, while the personal is mainly composed of railroad stocks and mortgages upon real estate. During his lifetime Mr. Adams made generous provision for each of his children. If his estate had been allowed to accumulate without distribution it would have amounted to several million dollars.

DR. CHAS. SCHMITZ.

Death of the Pioneer Physician of the City and a Notable Man.

Dr. Charles A. Schmitz died at 4 o'clock this morning at his residence on College street, at the ripe age of seventy-seven years. The doctor was a conspicuous figure in this city for years and altogether a notable gentleman, being regarded as the pioneer physician of the county.

The doctor was born at Borgloh, Hannover, Nov. 24, 1809. He came to this country in 1837, and for a short time practiced medicine in Philadelphia. He arrived at Fort Wayne in 1838 and for years was the leading physician of northern Indiana. During the cholera plague and other epidemics he distinguished himself by his devotion to his stricken fellow citizens.

The doctor accumulated much property, and among his valuable real estate holdings may be mentioned the block opposite THE SENTINEL office. He leaves much wealth, property, bonds and ready money.

His wife and two daughters, Mrs. W. V. Douglas, of this city, and Mrs. Rev. A. Biewend, of Boston, survive him.

No arrangements are made for the funeral save that it will occur Sunday, the doctor having requested that his remains be not interred until the fourth day after his death.

SOIL-WATER AS A CAUSE OF CHOLERA.

That too much as well as too little water in the soil is unfavorable to cholera is vouched for by a large mass of facts. As I watched the cholera in Bavaria during 1854 I was surprised to find that the marshy districts, where, as a rule, the poorest dwellers were exempt from epidemics. The great Donau bog, which lies between Neuburg and Ingolstadt, was surrounded by the epidemic, but the disease did not enter the villages on the fen. On the Freisinger moors an epidemic occurred at Halbermoos. On going thither the affected houses were found to stand on a tongue of land composed of quartz, which tongue reached inward on the moor. Reinhardt had proved the same thing for Saxony. The northern part of Saxony, which lies on the Spree, is a highly malarious district. For the eleventh time that cholera visited Saxony it shunned this region of fever. I will not say that cholera cannot be epidemic on a fen, but I do believe that when such an occurrence takes place we ought to ask ourselves what relation it may have with the state of moisture of the soil. The theory on the soil and subsoil waters requires that a knowledge should be obtained of what takes place in and over the soil on the outbreak and on the cessation of cholera. It requires, as Fort has said, a continuous record of facts. That cholera should very seldom be met with in the neighborhood of and on the mountains is in harmony with the disposition of cholera in respect of time, so that, as the frequency of cholera in these regions diminishes, the rainfall increases; the weather and cholera are equally capricious. Towns among mountains which are refuges for fugitives from cholera are but seldom situated on a soil which in and of itself would exclude cholera. Salzburg and Innsbruck have, for example, never yet been visited by cholera. Further, in 1866 these towns escaped, although a considerable influx took place from the seat of war where cholera raged. Salzburg, but still more Innsbruck, stands on the alluvial soil of the Salzbach and the Inn, as Munich stands on the Isar; but the first-named towns have about 50 per cent more rainfall than Munich. I can only imagine that the necessary degree of dryness for the development of cholera would be attained but very rarely in Salzburg and Innsbruck, just as occurred partially at Lyons in 1864, and in June, 1859, at Bombay, where cholera prevailed during the monsoons, which, as a rule, drive cholera away.—Popular Science Monthly.

girl. "Does mamma know?"

SAYS the Syracuse (N. Y.) Standard:
One day some five years ago John
—, a profane carpenter who oscillates between Waterville and Sherburne villages, in the Chenago Valley, in the prosecution of his trade, while very angry with one of his men for spoiling
some work, started to utter an oath, but instantly became speechless. Less swearing was done in the valley on this account for a long while, and the story ran far and wide. John shortly joined the church, but his voice did not come back until a year ago, when, becoming very angry again and forgetting that he was speechless, he started to swear
—and did, to his own utter amazement and that of all in hearing. He has since used his voice without difficulty.

An inventor took a bomb into the Patent Office at Washington the other day, and deposited it on one of the tables with the remark that it would explode as soon as it was placed in water.
As soon as he left the office one of the clerks concluded to experiment, and procured a pail of water for the purpose. No sooner was the bomb ducked than it exploded with terrific effect, blowing the pail in dozens of pieces, and splashing the water over every foot of space in the room. After the occupants had wiped the water from their faces, and shook their clothing a little, a resolution was adopted by them never again to be curious about strange inventions. The report made by the explosion was so loud that it could be heard in almost every part of the building.

It is a Curious Fact That the body is now more susceptible to benefit from medicine than at any other season. Hence the importance of taking Hood's Sarsaparilla now, when it will do you the most good. It is really wonderful for purifying and enriching the blood, creating an appetite and giving a healthy tone to the whole system.
Be sure to get Hood's Sarsaparilla, which is peculiar to itself.

THE WORLD.

The world is a queer old fellow.
As you journey along by lands
You had better conceal any trouble you feel
If you want to tickle his pride.
No matter how heavy your burden—
Don't tell him about it, pray.
He will only go about and shrug his shoulder
And hurriedly walk away.

But carefully cover your sorrow,
And the world will be your friend.
If only you'll bury your woes and be merry
He'll cling to you close to the end.
Don't ask him to lift one finger
To lighten your burden, because
He never will share it, but silently bear it,
And he will be loud with applause.

The world is a vain old fellow,
You must laugh at his sallies of wit
No matter how brutal, remonstrance is futile
And frowns will not change him one whit.
And since you must journey together
Down paths where all mortal feet go,
Why let him hold more favor to keep in his favor,
For he's an unmerciful foe.
—Ella Wheeler Wilcox in New York Mercury.

The Crown Prince of Italy.

The young prince is barely 16. He is still under the tuition of his tutors, and his studies, which are on a sensible, practical and extensive scale, are never suffered to be interrupted. He is as yet somewhat below the middle height. His hair is fair, his complexion pale, and his blue eyes have a winning expression of gentle cheerfulness. He more closely resembles his maternal grandfather, the King of Saxony, than his Italian ancestry. His memory is prodigious. His preceptor, Col. Osio, formerly military attaché to the embassy at Berlin, who fulfills his duties with conscientious firmness and devotion, speaks highly of his pupil. It is his ambition to make him "every inch a king."

When the boy was still a little child he was the most intimate terms with the colonel and exceedingly anxious to please him. After having successfully gone through his lessons he would turn to him and say: "Colonel, kiss your little prince if you are satisfied with him."

He speaks English perfectly, having had from his birth an English nurse, to whom he was deeply attached and for whom he mourned sincerely when she died a short time ago. The little fellow was so conscientious that, having been ordered by his mother to speak nothing but English on certain days, he would not break through the rules even to answer a high functionary who addressed him successfully in Italian and French, looking imploringly at the queen, who, the queen, was present, as if begging her to explain his apparent discourtesy. He had the free disposal of a small weekly allowance.
One day, after having been unusually quiet and observant at some public pageant, he was seen to pull his mother's skirt and ask her what the price of a silk gown was. "Because," he added, "here are all my savings. See if they will buy one for my nurse."
The queen is passionately fond of the son on whom the crown of Italy must descend, but she never allows her adoration to become weakness. Handsome, elegant, fascinating, worshipped by all who approach her, idolized by her subjects, Queen Margherita has, under the outward appearance of worldly light heartedness and womanly ease, a strong sense of what is due to her husband and her rank, and what is expected of her high position.

A Saving in Cookery.

An English inventor claims to save one third of the time and 10 per cent. of loss in the cooking of joints of meat by thrusting into them metallic conductors to la-sure their simultaneous heating throughout, these conductors being copper blades with globular heads of iron. Flesh is a very bad conductor of heat and without this device the outside of the meat is greatly overcooked, with much waste of nutritious juices before the inside is well done.—Arkansas Traveler.

Adam's Loneliness.

Little Tony went to Sunday school for the first time in his life and heard the teacher tell about Adam in the Garden of Eden, and what an easy time he might have had if it had been only for his appetite for apples. On returning home Tony said to his mother: "Then Adam was all alone on the earth at first, was he?" "Yes, my child, all alone."
"Poor man! How 'fraid he must have been of robbers!"

Shedding the Toe Nails.

A Neapolitan physician has described a case of hysteria, prolonged and aggravated, in which the nails of the fingers and toes were spontaneously shed. This was preceded by tingling, especially in the thumbs, and the great toes, followed by suppuration in the bed of the nail. The curious affection of the nails is supposed to have been the result of disordered nerve functions.—Arkansas Traveler.

Latest in Instantaneous Photography.

The latest thing in instantaneous photography is the suggestion of the French Academy of Sciences that an international conference be held in Paris next spring to make arrangements for the elaboration of a photographic map of the heavens to be simultaneously executed at ten or twelve observatories scattered over the surface of the earth.—New York Commercial Advertiser.

Gen. Sherman on Wagner.

Gen. Sherman, whom I met at the "Walkure" the other day, made me think of Canning. When we talked about Wagner I asked the great warrior if at least he did not admire the scene in which Siegfried draws the magic sword; but the general replied, thinking, I suppose, of Atlanta and Shiloh: "I never knew a soldier who had been drawn his sword."

An Archeological Park.

A scheme is being discussed to form an archeological promenade park in the center of Rome, connecting the Capitol
the ancient Roman Forum and other famous buildings near by. Genuine antiquities and ancient dwelling houses which have been excavated will be removed to the new park for exhibition.

A Just Conclusion.

A lady writing rather too feelingly and graphically for these columns on a noted American habit remarks very justly in conclusion: "How any man who lays the faintest claim to genteel manners can calmly expropriate in people's faces in cars or on the streets is a curious phenomenon of our American civilization."—Boston

Didn't Care to Fight.

M. Paul de Cassagnac can fight or not as he pleases. An offended fellow editor recently telegraphed to him: "I shall have the honor to send you my seconds tomorrow, and the fire after coolly replied:
"You need not send them, for I will not receive them."—Chicago Herald.

Wholesale Cruelty to Animals.

We suppose that no winter passes without causing a shudder in the breasts of all right minded people when they read in the newspapers that thousands of cattle have perished from starvation on the western plains. This particular form of cruelty to animals has seemed to be and probably is beyond the reach of law and of local public opinion. Nevertheless the recent national convention of humane societies at Pittsburgh took the matter up and delivered their opinions upon it in very proper terms. They say truly that nobody has a moral right to bring into existence a greater number of cattle than he can reasonably expect to find food and some kind of shelter for in winter. Yet the practice is to estimate for a certain percentage of loss by lingering torture, and then thrust to the chance of getting through the winter with a better showing than the estimate. This is cruelty to animals reduced to system. Acts which would be severely punished if committed in the older states and visited with loss of social consideration are the principal trade and calling of large territories.
The suggestion of the association was that since the ranges are mostly on public lands, unsettled by the emigrant, and still less under the direct and immediate control of congress, it should be made unlawful for any one to range cattle on public lands without making provision for them in winter by food and shelter.—New York Evening Post.

One of Nature's Revenges.

I remember seeing Fred Archer when he made a flying visit to this country two years ago, and thinking what a wiry, and faced half grown little chap he was. He was ill then, ill at heart, which is the cruelest of all ills when one is young, and I fancied Bend Or must have carried extra weight when he won the Derby on this account. That strident, wheezy expression and a showy checkered waistcoat that accompanied it have always been associated with the great English horse racer ever since. Very likely he consoled himself, let us hope he did, at least, and the outrages of prolonged starvation, constant Turkish baths and riding in the teeth of a cold and wind only in silk shirt and thin breeches were the legitimate causes of his death. Nevertheless, though man floats at nature, she can be kind in being cruel. She allowed Archer to slip out of the world.—Boston
Herald.

Put His Foot in It.

"She sings divinely, doesn't she?" said
the sentimental male admirer of music as she left the piano.
"Yes," said his lady companion, rather testily.
"I always think that the soul comes out in the voice, and that a woman who can sing like that must love passionately, widely."
"Some people who can't sing can love just as well when she finds a sensible man," and she flounced off and put by an old maid. It was only when he got home that it struck him how he had put his foot in it.—San Francisco Chronicle.

A certain physician was asked if he could recommend Pond's Extract.
He was silent for a moment, and then replied: "My dear friend, some of the most distinguished physicians and surgeons in Europe and America have recommended Pond's Extract for subduing Pain and Inflammation, and the Paris Medical Society reported its power over Hemorrhages of all sorts as remarkable." But you must get the genuine Pond's Extract.

ADVICE TO MOTHERS.

—Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup should always be used when children are suffering from colic. It relieves the little sufferers at once; it produces natural, quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub wakes as "bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhea, whether arising from teething or other causes. Twenty-five cents a bottle.

MAKING MANDARINS.

ACCOUNT OF A CHINESE CIVIL SERVICE EXAMINATION.

Description of the Place Where the Great Examinations Are Held. Official Corruption—A Trick to Obtain a "Substitute"—Other Methods.

Started off early in the morning with my venerable "boy" to find the examination Hall for would-be mandarins. I expected to see a majestic pile of buildings, as impressive in its way as the Alhambra at Seville or the Berlin university. All accounts of China that I had seen referred to the civil service examinations of the empire as the foundation of the country's stability and of her people's happiness. I had read that the highest offices under the government were within reach of the humblest peasant, provided he passed successfully the various examinations conducted by distinguished and disinterested scholars. If what writers on China have said be true, we can afford to copy her in this respect, for what can be more inspiring to our schoolboys than the thought of being able to reach honor and fame by making high marks in the recitation room? On entering what purported to be the place where the examinations were held, I found myself inside of a vast wall surrounding a few acres of what in Chicago would be taken for cattle sheds. Each one of these cattle pen looking stalls, of which there are 10,000 in the inclosure, is meant to receive a candidate for examination.

This candidate sits crouched on a board floor raised a few inches from the ground. It is hard to tell whether the elevation is made to secure him from dampness or to facilitate an inspection of the premises by those whose business it is to see that no "skinning papers" are used. The candidate's body is pinned to the back of the cell by a sort of sewing board which slides in like a shelf against his stomach. This is used as a table. These cells are arranged in long tiers with a guardian at each end to see that no communication takes place between the aspirant and the outside world. At the ends of these alleys stand large jars of water and caldrons in which the food is cooked which the guardians supply to the candidate. No one is allowed to leave his cell until his examination papers are completed. These examinations last as long as the candidate can endure the discomfort of his position—often for several days. In the midst of these dreary little prison alleys is a handsomely carved pavilion, where sit the chief examiners and high officials, and where the determinations are reached that make or unmake the Chinese office seeker.

PREDETERMINED CORRUPT.

Pretty much every well informed resident tells me that the Chinese officials as a class are irredeemably corrupt, and that none but rich men can afford to be mandarins. The way this paradox is made to harmonize is somewhat as follows: The rich Chinaman who wants to become a mandarin comes to Pekin some weeks before the examination commences. He wants to look about; to post himself as to the examiners; he is to have, and above all select his "substitute," who is a scholarly but impetuous individual who loans his services to rich but brainless candidates for mandarinship. Beggars in China are of slow making, and for a work so delicate as this unusual time is needed. There were on the steamer coming up the Yellow river with me a number of officials on their way to an examination that was not to take place for several months. Before entering the examination hall the rich candidate and the scholarly but impetuous substitute exchanged names. When the papers are handed in the rich man has signed the poor man's name to a slovenly piece of work while the impetuous party has given the credit of his masterly manuscript to a wealthy patron. When the names of the successful candidates are announced our wealthy knave takes his diploma while our poor but equally knavish scholar takes the bribe that is to support him until another wealthy candidate turns up.

One would think that a man could not long carry on a profession of this nature. So those think who do not know the ramifications of corruption in China. The great crowd that goes into one examination facilitates any one's sinking his identity. The question occurred to me at once: If this poor devil should pass a mandarin's examination, why did he not "sell out" his patron and take the office? The answer I received from the knowing was that the getting to be a mandarin was a small matter compared to holding your self in power after you once get there, and that the substitute in Pekin was, in view of his means, doing a very wise thing in remaining where he was. Of course there are numerous ways of cheating in examinations. Chinese "skinning papers" that I have seen are marvels of fine work which one might expect of a people who have brought the art of deception to a degree of perfection hitherto undreamed of.—Outing.

Some Church Clocks.
We have, however, some masterpieces upon which we may nevertheless plume ourselves. Those who have heard Great Peter of York announce that midnight has come are not likely to forget the deep and thrilling resonance that fills the air and booms over the city. The bell weighs two tons and a half and cost $2,000. It was second to none in this kingdom until Big Ben was set up at Westminster to stand sentinel like over the mighty Thames. Great Tom of Lincoln is another bell of great reputation. It was recast in 1855, and on its return from the Whitechapel foundry it was welcomed home by a procession of clergy, gentry and citizens, with banners flying and bands playing, at the south entrance to the city. It is six feet high and nearly seven feet in diameter, and weighs five tons and eight hundred weight. Its tone is also of an extraordinary fullness, richness and sweetness, especially when heard in the dead of the night.—London Paper.

A Boston philanthropist and student of human nature bought a dozen cheap umbrellas, had a nickel plate inserted in each handle on which was his address and the request that the umbrella be returned, and on the first rainy day went out on the street and handed one to each umbrella-less woman that he met. All were returned within a week but one, and in place of that came a note saying that it had been stolen and that the writer would pay for it. The next rainy day he handed the umbrellas to twelve unprotected men. He never saw but one of them again, and that was brought in by a friend who said he had stolen it at a church festival.

INDIANA NEWS.
Late Notes of Interest From Various Points in Hoosierdom.

The burned district of Kendallville is to be rebuilt this summer.
John Elder, aged 75 years, died at his home near Warsaw last Friday.
Chirs. Alsapugh failed in business at Waveland last Thursday for $2,000.

The students of Wabash college have about concluded to adopt the Knickerbocker uniform.
The county clerk of Monroe county whose term expired recently was short $12,000. He promises to make good the shortage if given time.

Tom Murphy is "redeeming" a number of Vincennes "old soaks" from the ditch, and is revolutionizing the town on the temperance question.
Ella Wise, a bad Peru girl, shot Pat Holland, a saloon keeper in that town, in the breast last week. The wound it not serious. Ella was jailed.

Eastern capitalists visited Kokomo last week with the view of establishing glass works if the surroundings were suitable. The gas was what brought them.
Judging from the letter of the father of the late Achsa Huffman, of Middlebury, some one better keep an eye on him or there will be another suicide to record before long.

Huntington county is kicking like a bay steer on account of the trial of Mock and Fridiger at Marion. Huntington county pays the bill and it promises to be a bloated one.
Burglars broke into Halderman Brothers' dry goods, and Cleveenger's hardware store at Larwell, a small town about twenty-five miles west of here the other night, and carried off $250 worth of goods. Two strangers were seen in the town on the preceding day, and suspicion rests on them.

Last Monday a petition bearing 2,312 names of tax payers of Noble county praying for an election to remove the court house from Albion to Kendallville, was presented before the commissioners' court. The petitioners also deposited $200 in cash for paying an architect and a bond of $1,000 for defraying the expenses of an election, as the law requires. The commissioners by a vote of 2 to 1 ignored the petition and proceeded to arrange for the construction of the court house at Albion. There is war at Kendallville.

An important decision was rendered at LaFayette last week, which may prove interesting in the future if the higher court will sustain it. The husband of Mrs. W. S. Lingle died 1884, leaving his property encumbered with mortgages amounting to $45,000. Mrs. Lingle asked the court to set aside her interest in the estate which was done. The mortgage holders thought that they could sell her interest to satisfy their claims, but the court decided they could not do so.

The foremost counties in the state in the wool product are Montgomery, Stenben and LaGrange, raising between 40,000 and 50,000 head of sheep annually. Elkhart and DeKalb come next, producing 30,000 to 50,000.—Exchange.
The LaGrange Standard article: The latest statistical report we have at hand, reports the number of sheep and lambs in Stenben county at 49,023 LaGrange 47,812, DeKalb 41,736, Elkhart 41,064. These are the only counties in the state with over 40,000.

Three of a kind.
Three things to love—Courage, gentleness, affectionateness.
Three things to admire—Intellectual power, dignity, gracefulness.
Three things to hate—Cruelty, arrogance, ingratitude.
Three things to reverence—Religion, justice, self-denial.
Three things to wish for—Health, a cheerful spirit, friends.
Three things to like—Cordiality, good humor, mirthfulness.
Three things to suspect—Flattery, partiality, sudden affection.
Three things to avoid—Idleness, sipping, jesting, loquacity.
Three things to govern—Temper, impulse, the tongue.
Three things to be prepared for—Disaster, chance, death.

COMMON COUNCIL.
Report of the Various Standing Committees.

REPORT OF COMMITTEE ON ASSESSMENT OF TAXES.
To the Honorable Mayor and Common Council.
Your committee on assessment and taxes to whom was referred the petition of Henry M. Williams, executor of the estate of J. L. Williams, praying for a refund for double taxation on 120 acres of land in Williams' addition, north of Creighton avenue, would respectfully report that we have examined the assessors' list and find that said Henry M. Williams is entitled to $28.50 erroneously assessed on said 120 acres of land, and we therefore recommend that the clerk be instructed to issue an order in favor of said Henry M. Williams for said amount of $28.50.

In regard to a petition of John Mohr, Jr., praying for a refund of $100 for taxes on $100.00 indebtedness, your committee asks further time.
CHRISTIAN TRESSELL, Committee.
On motion of Mr. Wessell, section 1 was carried in; on motion of Mr. Monahan further time was granted.

Lafayette Call: "Robert Blackburn, a competent railroad man of Fort Wayne, is now running a freight train north on the Monon route, between here and Michigan City."

Chris. Wenninghoff and Fred Hollenbeck left yesterday for New Orleans. The entire burden of the Platt Deutsche Fritz Reuter Verein rests on the capacious shoulders of Andy Kalbacher during their absence.

Building permits have been granted to A. D. Cressler to build an addition to his brick barn, on lots 2 and 3, Ewing's addition, to cost $800, and to Thomas McHenry, to erect a frame stable on lot 24, Baker's addition, to cost $140.

President Cleveland will be fifty years old Friday, the 18th. He will be only the fourth president celebrating his semi-centennial anniversary in the white house. The other three were James K. Polk, Franklin Pierce and U. S. Grant. If Garfield had lived one month longer he would have been fifty years old.

Judge Gresham yesterday entered an order authorizing Receiver T. M. Cooley, of the Wabash road, to defend all suits brought against him as receiver and to pay out of the income all judgements and decrees of this court rendered against him where the cause of action arose after Dec. 31, 1886.

The shipments of east-bound freight from Chicago, by all lines, for the week ending Saturday, March 5, amounted to 58,385 tons, against 52,742 tons during the preceding week, an increase of 5,643 tons. The Wabash road hauled 3,950 tons or 6.7 per cent; the Pittsburg 13,460 tons or 22.9 per cent, and the Nickel Plate 1,926 tons or 3.3 per cent.

City Treasurer Henry Berghoff protests against the city papers giving him four new boys within a couple of months, says he owns no city bonds and for that reason has no interest in increasing the population of Fort Wayne in such an extravagant manner. It is his brother, Herman, who was presented with twins yesterday.

The safety vault to be placed in the Hamilton National bank is of chiseled steel and will cost $6,000. It will hold 500 iron boxes to each of which there will be two keys, one for the lessee and one for the bank. Neither key can open a box without its counterpart and no two locks are alike. An immense iron grating will partially hide the vault from view.

Extra Session.

The senators and representatives seem to doubt that Governor Gray will call an extra session of the legislature, although they cannot say just how the state departments will get along without funds, and then, an extra session is not without precedent.

Governor Morison called a special session which convened April 24, 1881, and he again called one which convened Nov. 18, 1885.

Count Miller called a special session which convened April 8, 1880. Baker also called an extra session again on Nov. 18, 1872.

Thomas A. Hendricks called an extra session which convened on March 9, 1875.

Gov. J. D. Williams called one which convened March 6, 1867.

Governor Porter called an extra session which convened March 8, 1861.

Isaac P. Gray called an extra session which convened March 10, 1855, thus showing that in twenty-seven years we have had, since 1860, three republican governors who have called five extra sessions, and three democratic governors who have called three.

NATURE'S TRIBUTE.

The Sun Burst Through a Cloudy Sky to Light the Face of Brooklyn's Great Preacher Just Before the Coffin Lid Was Closed.

New York, March 10.—In spite of the rain the streets in the vicinity of Rev. Henry Ward Beecher's house were crowded with people this morning. The coffin rested in the center of the front parlor and was surrounded with a bank of fragrant flowers. The remains were dressed in a suit of black broadcloth, with a frock coat buttoned up, and the right hand laid across the heart. The features were natural and there was a smile upon the face.

Promptly at 9:30 o'clock Rev. Chas. H. Hall, of the church of the Holy Trinity, entered the house and commenced to read the burial service from the ritual of the Episcopal church. The quartet sang, "Jesus, Lover of My Soul," "Beyond the Blething and the Weeping," and "Come, Holy Spirit." While the services were in progress in the house, company (G, known as the Plymouth company, of the Thirteenth regiment, was drawn up in front of the house.

Only members of the family and a few intimate friends were present during the services at the house. The family were seated in the back parlor. None of the family were dressed in black. A few minutes before the remains were carried out of the house the rain ceased and sunshine burst out bright and clear. A ray shone through the front window into the parlor before the lid of the coffin was screwed down and rested upon the face of the great divine, lighting it up and forming a halo around his head.

The coffin was covered with roses and ferns when placed in the church. The face of the dead was exposed and the regiment filed by first, afterwards the holders of tickets were admitted.

REVEREND'S FORTUNE.

Henry Ward Beecher's estate is valued at $250,000, real and personal. His real consisted of his country seat at Peekskill and some lands in Wisconsin. He did not own the house in which he lived. His income was about $30,000 per year. For the past four years he received a salary of $15,000 a year from Plymouth church; in former years his salary was $20,000. During the famous Tilton controversy $100,000 was granted him as a mark of confidence in his integrity and to enable him to meet the expenses of his suit. For twenty years he was prominent in the lecture field, receiving never less than $250 a night nor more than $500. This netted him about $14,000 a year. Then he received a salary of about $4,000 upon some books written in his earlier days, prominent among which was "Lectures to Young Men." His syndicate newspaper letter which he continued up to the time of his illness, netted him $75 a week. This income, though almost princely, was spent in ornamenting his lovely home and in charity. His house was a perfect cabinet of curiosities from all lands, and of odd specimens of bric-a-brac, shells, tortois and game of various descriptions was unexcelled.

WASHINGTON, March 10.—Following are the weather indications:
Indiana, fair weather, becoming warmer.

A Hanging Here.

PLYMOUTH, Mass., March 10.—Samuel Besso was hanged here this morning at 8:30 o'clock. On December 25th, 1885, Besso murdered Richard N. Lawton, a resident of Westport, and a collector of eggs. The murder was committed for the purpose of robbery. Reporters were excluded from the execution and only the witnesses specified by law were admitted. The simple fact that the sentence of the court was carried out is all that the sheriff will allow to be made public.

SERIOUS CHARGES

Are Filed Against Leading Strikers by General Manager Baldwin, of the Pennsylvania Company.

YOUNGSTOWN, March 10.—The Pennsylvania company made a decisive move this morning. General Manager Baldwin filing a petition in court against Frank Veehall, James Kerr, Patrick O'Brien and eight others, charging that they were interfering with the operation of the road by terrorizing new men that the company had employed to operate their trains and threatening violence to the employees and officials. An injunction was issued by Judge Johnston restraining the men named from going upon the property of the Pennsylvania company, or in any manner interfering with trains. The restraining writs were served upon the men, who at once called a meeting and are now in secret session. Trainmaster Donahoe and Yardmaster Randall, of the New York, Pennsylvania and Ohio, are attempting to move freight.

MILWAUKEE, March 10th.—The strike of the printers in this city is at an end, the Typographical union having allowed its members to procure work wherever they can get it. But few strikers will be able to obtain work.

THE B. AND O.

A Committee is Figuring on President Garrett's Proposition To-day.

NEW YORK, March 10. The Executive committee of the Richmond terminal company, has just gone into session and will consider two propositions relating to the purchase of the Baltimore and Ohio stock under the option given by Robert Garrett to Alfred Sully. One of the directors just said the proposition most likely to be adopted is that the syndicate shall take the stock in their interest and hold it until the Richmond terminal and a full board of directors approve the action. The executive committee will then be placed in trust and the Richmond terminal will either consolidate the Baltimore and Ohio with their system or operate it separately as a proprietary road. The Pennsylvania railroad has no interest in the deal nor has the Western Union. The meeting of the Richmond terminal executive has adjourned to meet at the call of Mr. Sully, but all information is refused as to their action.

ACCIDENTAL HANGING

A Father, Returning Home, Finds His Daughter Hanging in Her Swing.

PHILADELPHIA, March 10. When John W. Niblick returned to his home at No. 2,011 East Thirteenth street, he found his two small children crying and on looking around was horror-stricken to see the body of his thirteen-year-old daughter, Annie, hanging by a rope attached to the transom over the door communicating between the two rooms of the first floor. The girl had evidently been dead for some hours. The theory is that she had attempted to arrange a swing, when the chair tilted and in the fall the rope became knotted around her neck.

LATER.

PHILADELPHIA, March 10.—Mrs. McClellan, neighbor to Mr. Niblick was arrested on suspicion of having murdered Annie Niblick, in order to get rid of her, thus making her chances better for marrying Mr. Niblick.

CIVIL SERVICE.

The Examinations for the Government Service Explained.—The Salaries Promised.

One week from to-morrow some thirty or more applicants for positions in the government service will be examined in the county educational rooms in the court house by a special commission under Postmaster Knough.

People generally may not understand that the civil service examination is principally intended to cover department service at Washington. The names of the successful applicants will be placed on the Indiana list, and when the several departments used clerks from this state, choices will be made from the general list. Those who propose attending the examination in this city should understand that it will be conducted for department service. The following general information pertaining to the examination, is taken from the third annual report of the civil service commission:

Ordinary departmental examinations are divided into two grades, the general examination and the limited examination.

The general examination is for admission to places having salaries from $1,000 to $1,800, or over. The original admissions are usually at a salary of $1,000, though some of them are at a salary of $1,200.

The limited examination is for admission to places with a salary ranging from $720 to $900 inclusive, original admission being commonly at a salary of $800. The limited examination is much easier than the general examination, being mainly confined to the subjects numbered 1 and 2. It may embrace elementary questions in geography and the writing of a letter. As the work in this place reached by this examination is chiefly copying, a good handwriting is important to success.

A person who has taken only the limited examination cannot be appointed to any place requiring the general examination.

Those who pass the general examination, may, if they do not object, be certified for the appointment to the lower places; but they may afterwards be advanced to the higher without further examination.

Applicants who have passed the general examination take their chance to get at first a $1,200 or only a $1,000 place, as most those who have passed the limited examination take the chance of getting a $800 place, or only one of the $720 places.

The departmental examinations, whether general or limited, are for all places, above defined, in either of the departments at Washington, and there are no separate examinations for places in any particular department, except the special examinations. The applicant must remember that the examination, if it shows the requisite capacity, will only entitle him to be placed on the register of persons eligible for appointment, and to be certified, in his turn, to the appointing officer when a vacancy shall occur, and when his state is reached in the order of appointment.

MR. S. C. LUNBARD

Named as Receiver of the Citizens' Street Car Company and Empowered to Lay New Tracks on Calhoun Street.

The suit of Charles E. Bond seeking the appointment of a receiver for the Citizens' Street Railway company came up before Judge O'Rourke this morning. He listened to every phase of the case and concluded by appointing Mr. S. C. Lunbard receiver for the company with power to construct a double track on Calhoun street and make all necessary improvements, issuing receiver's certificates therefor. Mr. Lunbard immediately qualified, giving bond for $20,000 with J. J. Bass and Mr. S. B. Bond as his bondsmen.

Mr. E. P. Williams through his counsel filed proceedings to foreclose the mortgage of $20,000 on the road. When the line was mortgaged for $20,000, it was to Mr. Williams and Mr. O. P. Morgan as trustees, to secure bonds. In the capacity of trustee Mr. Williams seeks a foreclosure and the appointment of a receiver, but as it did not take precedence over Mr. Bond's suit, it is likely he will not proceed further.

Within a day or two the Street Car company have been offered $70,000 for their property. This price would pay off the bonds and accrued interest amounting possibly to $40,000, and give the stockholders from fifty to seventy-five cents on the dollar for the money they invested. On the street the stock is solicited at twenty-five cents on the dollar with but few sales.

Mr. Lunbard will place the line in first class shape and possibly appoint a superintendent in place of Mr. Pearse.

FRANCIS DIDIER.

He Gives $2,000 for Religious Purposes, Including a New Church at Latty.

The will of Francis Didier was filed for probate to-day, with County Clerk Leag. He appoints his son Francis X. Didier executor of his considerable estate. He bequeaths to his surviving wife the homestead and disposes the executor to pay her $25 per month. He also directs that his minor children be paid $18 per month, with the proviso that his estate is to be finally divided among them.

He gives to Rt. Rev. Bishop Dwenger $1,000 in monthly installments and gives $1,000 towards the construction of a Catholic church at Latty, Paulding county, Ohio, if the same is built inside of five years.

Mr. John Dally comes home from Indianapolis a great admirer of President Green Smith. Mr. Dally, who is a very clever fellow, was one of the democratic doorknobs to repel the republican mob and believes a few of the republican intruders bear the marks of the encounter.

HOW DREYER RUINED A RUSSIAN.

"Talking about funny things," said a big, bronzed, bearded man in the reading-room of an up-town hotel, "the funniest thing I ever heard of happened in my saw-mill out in Michigan. We used a heavy upright saw for sawing heavy timber. One day the men had all gone to dinner, leaving the saw, which ran by water-power, going at full speed. While we were away a big black bear came into the mill and went nosing around. The saw caught his fur and twirled him a little. Brain didn't like him for a start, so he turned around and fetched the saw a lick with his paw. Result: a badly cut paw. A blow with the other paw followed, and it was also cut. The bear was by this time aroused to perfect fury, and, rushing at the saw, he caught it in his grasp and gave it a tremendous tug. It was his last tug, and we lived on bear studs for a week. When we came up from dinner there was half a bear on each side of the saw, which was going ahead as nicely as though it had never seen a bear. This is a fact, so help me, God," and the big lumberman bit off a fresh chunk of tobacco. — New York Tribune.

THE MARKET.

NEW YORK, March 10.—The stock market opened quiet, but firm, the first prices being generally small fractions above the closing figures of last evening. As usual, of late, bulk business was restricted to a few stocks—Western Union, Reading, Richmond and West Point.

Noon.—Money easy, at 31 per cent.
NEW YORK, March 10.—Wheat opened 10 1/4 lower, but soon strengthened and recovered from the decline with a fair business; No. 2 April, 92 1/2c. Corn, 10 1/4 higher, and moderately active, at 49c. Oats, firm and quiet, at 35 1/2c. Pork, firm, at $15 25/16 7/8. Lard, higher and firm at $7 90. Butter, firm, at 12 1/2c. Sugar, steady; crushed 6 1/2c. Molasses, steady at 18c. Coffee, dull; fair Rio, 14c. Eggs, 16 1/2c. CHICAGO MARKET.

CHICAGO, March 10.—Shortly before noon wheat began to break off heavily and there was a frantic rush to sell, which caused May delivery to decline to 81 1/4, or 4 1/2c under the highest prices yesterday. The market closed feverish at inside figures, 75 1/2c; May, 81 1/4c. Corn, senior at 34 1/2c. Oats, firm, at 24 1/2c. Rye, 54c. Barley, 49c. Flaxseed 61 1/2c. Prime Timothy, $1.81. Whiskey, $1.18. Pork, steady, $20.10. Lard, strong, at $7.85.

The inventory of the estate of Charles Francis Adams has been filed, and the total property left by him is appraised at $1,026,000. The real estate consists of the Hotel Baylston, the Bijou theater and adjacent property, and the Adams building in Boston, and the homestead and other property in Quincy, while the personal is mainly composed of railroad stocks and mortgages upon real estate. During his lifetime Mr. Adams made generous provision for each of his children. If his estate had been allowed to accumulate without distribution it would have amounted to several million dollars.

DR. CHAS. SCHMITZ.

Death of the Pioneer Physician of the City and a Notable Man.

Dr. Charles A. Schmitz died at 4 o'clock this morning at his residence on College street, at the ripe age of seventy-seven years. The doctor was a conspicuous figure in this city for years and altogether a notable gentleman, being regarded as the pioneer physician of the county.

The doctor was born at Bergholt, Hanover, Nov. 24, 1809. He came to this country in 1837, and for a short time practiced medicine in Philadelphia. He arrived at Fort Wayne in 1838 and for years was the leading physician of northern Indiana. During the cholera plague and other epidemics he distinguished himself by his devotion to his stricken fellow citizens.

The doctor accumulated much property, and among his valuable real estate holdings may be mentioned the block opposite Tax Bureau office. He leaves much wealth, property, bonds and ready money.

His wife and two daughters, Mrs. W. V. Douglas, of this city, and Mrs. Rev. A. Biewend, of Boston, survive him.

No arrangements are made for the funeral save that it will occur Sunday, the doctor having requested that his remains be not interred until the fourth day after his death.

SOIL-WATER AS A CAUSE OF CHOLERA.

That too much as well as too little water in the soil is unfavorable to cholera is vouched for by a large mass of facts. As I watched the cholera in Bavaria during 1851 I was surprised to find that the malarial districts, where, as a rule, the poorest dwell, were exempt from epidemics. This great Donau bog, which lies between Neuburg and Ingolstadt, was surrounded by the epidemic, but the disease did not enter the villages on the bank. On the Freisinger moors an epidemic occurred at Haidbergmoos. On going thither the affected houses were found to stand on a tangle of land composed of quartz, which tongue reached inward on the moor. Reinhard had proved the same thing for Saxony. The northern part of Saxony, which lies on the Spree, is a highly malarial district. For the eleventh time that cholera visited Saxony it shunned this region of fever. I will not say that cholera cannot be epidemic on a fen, but I do believe that when such an occurrence takes place we ought to ask ourselves what relation it may have with the state of moisture of the soil. The theory on the soil and subsoil waters requires that a knowledge should be obtained of what takes place in and over the soil on the outbreak and on the cessation of cholera. It requires, as Fort has said, a continuous record of facts. That cholera should very seldom be met with in the neighborhood of or on the mountains is in harmony with the disposition of cholera in respect of time; so that, as the frequency of cholera in these regions diminishes, the rainfall increases; the weather and cholera are equally capricious. Towns among mountains which are refuges for fugitives from cholera are but seldom situated on a soil which in and of itself would exclude cholera. Salzburg and Lunenburg have, for example, never yet been visited by cholera. Further, in 1816 these towns escaped, although a considerable influx took place from the seat of war where cholera raged. Salzburg, but still more Innsbruck, stands on the alluvial soil of the Salzach and the Inn, as Munich stands on the Isar; but the first-named towns have about 50 per cent more rainfall than Munich. I can only imagine that the necessary degree of dryness for the development of cholera would be attained but very rarely in Salzburg and Innsbruck, just as occurred partially at Lyons in 1854, and in June, 1853, at Bombay, where cholera prevailed during the monsoons, which, as a rule, drive cholera away. — Popular Science Monthly.

Mr. A. D. Gressler, Hon. Montgomery Hamilton, Louis Hatterler and John C. Peters were at Defiance yesterday to examine Mr. E. J. Pennington's business with a view to going into his stock company to be formed here. Mr. Peters was interviewed this morning and said the committee were very favorably impressed with Mr. Pennington's business. He is well thought of at Defiance and the committee agree that he is a genius. They will make an elaborate report to the Business Men's exchange Monday next or a day or two later.
